

Dr. Tarnisha Hemphill

Assistant Professor of Nursing at GW

Dr. Tarnisha Hemphill is an Assistant Professor of Nursing at the George Washington University. She received her Doctorate of Nursing Practice in Nurse Education at Regis College.

Prior to joining the faculty of the George Washington University, she served as an Adjunct Assistant Professor at Georgetown University, where she taught Women's Health Nurse Practitioners and Certified Nurse-Midwifery graduate students. She also worked as a Full-time, Full-scope Certified Nurse-Midwife in Baltimore City providing healthcare from adolescents to menopause. Her area of expertise is in promoting diversity and equity in health care and improving prenatal care access to underserved populations with health disparities.

.