

IAS at SOU Runs A Sustainability Art Contest

The Institute for Applied Sustainability (IAS) at SOU wants to support --your-- student artwork! Students from any major and with any creative experience can use any form of 2D art to answer at least one of the following questions: What does sustainability mean to you? What does sustainability look like at SOU? Remember, the definition of sustainability is flexible. Maybe it makes you think of birds, trees, and bees. Maybe it makes you think of delicious food, biking to school, or wearing thrifted clothing. What sustainability means and looks like is up to you!

Winners get a $50 Visa gift card and could have their work hung up in the IAS offices in the Science building and turned into thank-you gifts for donors and partners. You are allowed to work in pairs, if desired.

To submit work by May 16th, visit

<https://docs.google.com/forms/d/e/1FAIpQLSd4RZmVTgwd5VfHtEZU8UyeSWeBkg9N1puunbV6gGCIfeb4Iw/view> form. For questions, or to submit your work physically, please reach out to the IAS Director of Student Engagement Sierra Garrett at garretts2@sou.edu.