Comprised of five sessions, this Community Engaged Research Workshop Series is designed to provide information and training in community engaged research to enhance research partnerships that address community issues. This series aims to build the capacity of researchers and community stakeholders to create and maintain long-term, collaborative community partnerships in the St. Louis region. Interested faculty, staff and community members are invited to attend.

Workshop sessions will be held virtually from 9:00 - 10:30 a.m. and cover the following topics:

Session 1 Friday, February 10

Radical Collaboration: Community and university working to develop policy for social change (presentation by Riisa Rawlins)

Session 2 Friday, February 24

Exploring Different Models of Engaged Research: The basics

Session 3 Friday, March 10

Trust Building: Developing authentic partnerships between university and community for long-term relationships

Session 4 Friday, March 24

Translating data: Storytelling to build toward policy change

Session 5 Friday, April 14

Funding for Engaged Research
